MEN'S MEETING ON NEXT SUNDAY

At St. Paul's M. E. Church
Promises to be the Best Yet

LARGE CROWD EXPECTED

G. L. McIntosh President of Wabash College Will Speak on "Habit"

The Men's Big Meeting, which is to be held at the St. Paul's M. E. church Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, promises to be the best meeting of any which has yet been held.

George L. McIntosh, president of Wabash College, who is to speak at this time, is one of the most popular lecturers in this county and great things are expected of him, especially, by those who heard him before, when he was in this city.

President McIntosh is not only a pleasant speaker, but he is one of our foremost educators and his lecture on "Habit" will be greatly appreciated by all.

These Big Men's Meetings bring the best and greatest intellects to our very doors and the result for the moral uplift of this community because of these meetings will be far reaching.

Special music by the chorus and also by the combined orchestra will be rendered and this part of the program is quite a feature. Every man is welcome and cordially invited to go Sunday afternoon to hear Prof. McIntosh.

LAUREL TRUSTEE'S BOOKS IN A MUDDLE

If Report Be True as Printed in Franklin County
Paper

Great surprise was caused the first of the week by the fact that the accounts of Fred Ensminger, trustee of Laurel township, Franklin county were reported badly entangled.

Mr. Ensminger has not been careful in keeping his books, and, being unable to get matters into shape, called upon expert assistance.

Anything exact as to the extent of the shortage is merely guess work until the work of auditing them is completed. His books show the payment of legitimate claims against the township which he had paid but neglected to secure vouchers for. Other claims have been found which he has paid but has failed to charge on the books. The bondsmen are investigating his business.

LOCAL NEWS

A souvenir gold cross should go with this issue of the Daily Republican.

Owen L. Carr has purchased the old Caldwell barn and property adjoining of Greensburg parties, who have owned it for years.

ANXIOUS READER. No, Fon Riggs is not going before the Indiana Navigation Congress with a bill to open traffic between here and Moscow and way points along Flatrock.

WOMEN'S RELIEF CORPS INSTALL NEW OFFICERS

Followed by Banquet Which Was Attended by Many Invited Guests

The banquet and installation of officers of the W. R. C. at their lodge room Thursday evening was attended by a large number of guests, who were greatly pleased with the excellent drill work of the installing officers. Every one did their work artistically.

A few brief talks were given by visitors, followed by a banquet which was spread on two long tables and enjoyed by about a hundred guests.

BOY WONDER IS ON THE PROGRAM

To Assist County Superintendent Headlee in His Talk on Birds

IS INTERESTING SUBJECT

Mr. Headlee is a Recognized Authority on Subject of Ornithology

There are few men today who are more familiar with the subject of "Birds" than County Superintendent W. O. Headlee. He is a recognized authority on Ornithology and is repeatedly quoted in papers and magazines on this subject. He is thoroughly at home in "Birdland" because of the fact that his knowledge has been acquired by close personal observation in studying their habits in real life.

His work as county superintendent of schools has brought him in close touch with nature, as well as fitting him for public speaking. His articles on "The Birds of Rush County" written for a local paper were read with much interest and attracted the attention of a number of authors on Ornithology. He is a member of the Indiana Audubon Society and has given a number of lectures in behalf of the birds under the auspices of this organization.

Mr. Headlee is an able and fluent speaker and presents his subject in well chosen language, never boring his hearers with large scientific terms. His lectures are both entertaining and instructive, combining wit and wisdom, mythical stories and poetic gems; and he keeps his audience intensely interested as he leads them through the unbeaten paths of "Birdland."

Harold Stockton, a young man with wonderful skill in imitating bird songs, accompanies Mr. Headlee and assists with the program. Young Stockton reproduces the notes and calls of our wild songsters with such accuracy that these birds verily live in the presence of his hearers. So effectively does he present the Screech Owl that one hearing him, imagines himself, for the time, surrounded by the loneliness and stillness of the night, only to be suddenly transported into a beautiful spring morning, as the songs of the Cardinal and Sugar-bird issue, with all their cheerful melody from this lips.

Together they give a most pleasing entertainment guaranteed to make good with any audience. Mr. Headlee and the young man already have some engagements ahead and expect to fill many more during the year.

WANTS PEOPLE TO EAT WITH HIM

Wealthy Richmond Manufacturer Will Convert His Home into a Cafe

TIRED OF HERMIT LIFE

H. E. Robinson Desires Association With Others—A Most Peculiar Venture, it will be

A wealthy Richmond man wants noise and company when he eats and for that end is converting part of his palatial residence into a cafe. Thursday's Richmond Palladium says:

"H. E. Robinson, president of the Robinson & Company machine works, one of Richmond's wealthiest citizens, is tired of living alone at his large and magnificently appointed home, 407 North Tenth street, and as a result he is now having the big building remodeled into an apartment house, which will include a thoroughly modern cafe.

"When Mr. Robinson was seen this morning he declined to discuss his unique plan for remodeling his home into an apartment house. 'I am not yet ready to make any statement regarding the plans I have in mind, but I will do so shortly,' said Mr. Robinson.

"When asked for his reason in transforming his home into a public hostelry, Mr. Robbins said that he was tired of living in the big dwelling like a hermit.

"You want to have plenty of people about the house to keep you company. Is that the idea?" he was asked.

"That is the reason," replied he.

STATE WILL FEED INDIANA QUAILS

Farmers Will be Paid By State
Commissioner For Grain
Consumed

State Fish and Game Commissioner, Z. T. Sweeney, announces that if the farmers of Indiana will feed the quail and keep an accurate account of the food used in feeding, he will pay the farmers for this grain if they send him an account, properly "O. K'd" by a State or county officer.

Mr. Sweeney says thousands of dollars are often spent in Indiana restocking places with game after the game has been destroyed. This year he believes that some attention should be paid to the quail so that at a small cost the flock can be fed and thus plenty of game insured when the next shooting season opens.

It is suggested that the feeding of quail begin at once so the birds will know where to look for grain when snow is on the ground. It is also suggested that wheat will be the best feed. If the birds are fed, as the commissioner hopes they will be, he says there will be more quails in Indiana next season than ever before known.

MORRISTOWN TO HAVE A CONDENSED MILK PLANT

Morristown Sun: W. T. Handy was here from Greenfield Monday and Tuesday to work up interest in the establishment of a condensed milk factory in Morristown. A brother of Willis, who is operating a plant in Anderson, is willing to take stock in the new enterprise if the dairymen of the community take the proper interest. The Anderson plant is said to be a paying investment.

OLD MAID LIST IS FILLING UP

Every Woman Past "That"
Age Has a "Dear" Friend,
Who is Ever Thoughtful

MANY NAMES GIVEN IN

Interesting List Will Appear in Saturday Evening's Rushville
Daily Republican

In Saturday evening's issue of the Daily Republican will appear a list of the old maids of this city who are willing to marry—or at least should be willing to marry. The list includes women from all walks and conditions in life, and is by far the most complete list ever published by any newspaper.

In addition the qualifications, fitness, virtues, general appearance and disposition of the parties whose names will be given, a little attempt at humor will be added to give the whole a spicy and palatable flavor.

We feel that the list will be complete, and have fifty-seven reasons for so thinking. The first one—and the only one necessary—is that in an event of this nature every woman past THAT age limit (the passing of which is second only to the pangs of death) has a friend—a female friend—who will make it her duty, her Christian duty, if you please, to see that their names are handed in.

One of our telephones was burned out today from the large number of calls received. For eight hours, one of the office employees has been engaged in answering phone calls and personal calls of giggling individuals bent on "Be sure and get So and So's name in."

Strange as it may seem, over half of the marriageable ladies of Rushville are old maids. This is a deplorable condition and a blot on the fair name of Rushville. In despair we cry out, "Oupid, where are thy darts—Old bachelors where are thy thoughts and nerve?"

Watch for Saturday evening's Daily Republican.

TREASURER CARES FOR LITTLE MONEY

County Treasurer Caldwell Now
Pays Each Evening Through
Warrant on Auditor

Since the new depository law has gone into effect the county and city treasurers have but little cash to handle. The fact that they have to deposit money every evening and that they pay through the warrant of the auditor or controller, which constitutes a sort of a check, makes the amount of cash which goes through the hands of the treasurers very small.

GLENWOOD FARMER GOES AGAINST GREEN GOODS

A rumor has reached the city from the Glenwood neighborhood, says the Connerville News, purporting that a wealthy farmer of that vicinity has lately had experience with "Green Goods Men" and that his experience cost him about $200. Efforts were made to learn the facts in the matter, but nothing could be gained which would warrant the publication of the alleged victim's name.

LOCAL PASTOR HAVING SUCCESS AS EVANGELIST

Vincennes Paper Speaks in Highest Terms of Rev. R. W.
Abberley

A clipping from a Vincennes paper states that the revival services, at that city, which are being conducted by Rev. R. W. Abberley, pastor of the Main Street Christian church, are starting out very successfully.

Evangelist Abberley so impressed the congregation with his first two sermons Sunday that on Monday evening the largest Monday evening congregation that ever assembled in the church was present to hear him. The first three nights resulted in seven additions.

Dr. Tevis Preached Last Evening
On Healing of Blind
Bartimeus

Dr. Tevis, the pastor, preached on "Blind Bartimeus," who was restored to his sight by the Savior.

In his most inspiring sermon he said in part:

"The cry of Bartimeus disturbs the followers of Jesus. It is marvelous that men imagine they must be formal in religion, while in all other relationships in life they are unbend and are natural. Why should enthusiasm or intensity of spirit be thought unnatural?"

"The Savior could not pass by the cry of faith. He rebukes the disciples and calls Bartimeus to him and opens his eyes."

"Here was a good chance for the blind beggar to have made a request for money. When the Savior says: 'What wilt thou that I should do unto thee?' Some people would willingly endure blindness for the sake of wealth. More than one would try wealth with one eye."

"After his eyes were opened, Bartimeus follows Jesus. The benefactor was more to him than the benefaction. The blesser was greater than the blessing."

"How many are spiritually blind, and have been so, so long that it is hard to explain to them the delights of vision. The want of the world is its knowledge of a need of light. To such comes the Divine invitation."

"When eyes are opened, then the spiritual kingdom is revealed as clearly as a material continent."

"The peculiar feature of the spiritual realm is the fact that the King's personality, outweighs even the charm of the Kingdom."

"Christ in the heart, means the possession of the Kingdom of God," said the pastor in his closing remarks.

Dr. Tevis will continue the meetings during next week.

ONE OF THE MOST DRAMATIC SERMONS OF THE REVIVAL

What promises to be one of the most powerful and dramatic sermons ever delivered in this city is "Daniel, the Great Christian Statesman," Dr. V. W. Tevis' subject for his Sunday evening service. It has the dramatic interest and qualities of a high class lecture, and will be one of the best sermons given by the pastor during the present revival services.

Mrs. J. B. Schrichte continues very ill at her home in South Main street.

RUSHVILLE TO BE REPRESENTED

Mayor Has Appointed Two Delegates to Attend National Harbors Congress

AND PLUG FOR WATERWAYS

Great Effort Will be Made to Connect Indianapolis With the Great Lakes

Every effort is being made to have a Indiana towns opened up to water commerce with the Great Lakes.

Mayor Cowing has received word to appoint two delegates to the meeting of the National River and Harbor Congress which will convene in Indianapolis on January 21st and 23d. A. L. Riggs and Nathan Weeks were appointed and will accompany the mayor to the meeting.

The purpose of this meeting is to consider the improvement of our water ways in general and to secure for Indiana an adequate share of all congressional appropriations to be made in the future for works of this character.

It is the purpose of this committee to attempt to have Indianapolis and other Indiana cities and towns on the White river to connect with the cities of the world by water.

Indiana's great natural resources are an inducement towards building the proposed waterway. Her coal mines, stone quarries and great grain producing regions would make it a profitable investment.

A movement was started some time ago to open up new waterways and repair older ones in order to increase the shipping facilities of the country. It was demonstrated the past year that the railroads are unable to handle the immense business of the country. Following the financial flurry of a few weeks ago, the industries of the country are preparing for an unprecedented period of activity. Orders that were held up by reason of the "near-panic" are being renewed and the mills will be forced to work overtime. How the increased output of factory, farm and mine is to be taken care of is one of the gravest of the questions that confront the Roosevelt administration. From the unthinking policy of the past, the rivers of the country, or a vast majority of them, are not in condition to relieve the situation. Their channels are blocked with sand and snags make navigation dangerous. These conditions are to be found even in the larger streams.

The inability of American farmers, miners and manufacturers to command a larger share of the rich trade of South America has been due to one factor. That factor is the high charges incident to getting the goods—whether raw or finished—from deep water ports on the coast. With their limited facilities for handling the country's business, the railroads have been compelled to discourage the crush of bulky and low paying freight in order to care for the more valuable materials that will pay a higher price for carriage. This is brought about by raising to the limit the tolls on the first named class of freight. Hence the farmer and the miner suffer.

The 5220 miles of trackage added to the railroad system of the United States last year are a mere bagatelle in comparison with the increased business that expects to pass over them.

Unless some other and added method of transporting the commerce of the country is devised it is not improbable that a panic will grow out of the congestion that is certain to follow.

PITCHED BATTLES

Have Occurred Between Italian Forces and Menelik's Black Warriors.

ABYSSINIANS IN A RAID

Italian Station in the Interior of Somaliland Pillaged by Raiding Party and Many Killed.

Red Sea Squadron Has Been Dispatched to Somali Coast to Enforce a "Be Good" Order.

Rome, Jan. 10.—News has been received here of serious trouble in Italian Somaliland on the east coast of Africa, which has resulted in pitched battles between the Italian forces there and the Abyssinians. A dispatch received here today reports a raid by

EMPEROR MENELIK.

2,000 Abyssinians near Lugh, the furthest Italian station in the interior, the Abyssinians robbing, killing and imprisoning many of the merchants.

Lugh is garrisoned by only about 125 natives under the command of Captain Bongiovanni, and the attacking party laid siege to the town. In a number of engagements that followed, both sides, according to the reports, suffered heavy losses.

The Italian government has ordered the squadron now in the Red sea to proceed to the coast of Somaliland in order to protect the towns along the coast, as the entire territory is garrisoned by not more than 2,000 natives under command of Italian officers. At the same time the government has telegraphed to the Italian legation at Addis Ababa, the capital of Abyssinia, instructing the Italian minister to present a protest to King Menelik against the violation of the status quo.

Later dispatches received here indicate that the trouble in Italian Somaliland is of a more serious nature than at first supposed. It is learned on good authority that Lugh was besieged by the Abyssinians and destroyed after a desperate and unequal fight and that its defenders were killed. It is believed here that the Italian government is concealing a severe reverse in order to prepare the public for graver news. The importance of the present situation lies in the establishment of the fact as to whether or not the King of Abyssinia ordered the attack upon the Italian possessions.

Negro Lynch Black Impostor. Charlotte, N. C., Jan. 10.—A long-distance telephone message from Selma, N. C., reports the lynching at Pine Level, Johnston county, of a strange negro at the hands of a negro mob. The negro, purporting to be advance agent of a "big show," induced the negro residents to attend what turned out to be a one-man performance by the negro himself. Their heads covered with guano sacks, the mob entered the negro's boarding house early this morning and took him forcibly to the woods. His body was found at daylight on the Southern railroad tracks. His identity has not been established.

Raided Blind Tiger. Danville, Ind., Jan. 10.—Deputy Sheriff Mendenhall and Constable Oliver Wilholt went to Hadley and raided a "blind tiger" run by Thomas Paparone, and confiscated forty gallons of wine and a quantity of beer. Paparone was arraigned before Judge Clark and fined $75 and costs, amounting in all to $128.80, which he paid. The liquor was ordered poured into the gutter.

Powder Mill Let Go. St. Louis, Jan. 10.—A terrific explosion which rocked buildings in St. Louis, East St. Louis and Belleville, occurred about 11 o'clock last night at Edgemont, Ill., nine miles south of East St. Louis, at the Phoenix Powder company's mills. Despite the tremendous force, which was evidenced by the breaking of plate-glass windows here, no one was killed or injured.

TO CLEAR THE RECORD

MARTIN MALONEY ASKS COURT TO ESTABLISH HIS DAUGHTER'S STATUS

New York, Jan. 10.—Martin Maloney of Philadelphia has made known through a formal statement given to the press, that proceedings have been taken to obtain a court judgment declaring that there was no marriage between his daughter, Helen Eugenie, and Arthur Herbert Osborn, the young New York broker, who, according to the county records, were technically united in matrimony at Mamaroneck, Dec. 28, 1905. Fictitious names were given by the parties to the ceremony, and the two never lived together. Mr. Maloney does not go into details in his announcement, but it is understood that the present court action is based upon the admissions of the young people that the idea of their union was conceived in a spirit of fun and that the marriage was a mockery.

Subsequent to the Mamaroneck ceremony, Miss Maloney accepted the attentions of Samuel Clarkson, a young Englishman, who had been a guest at the Maloney home. On Oct. 1, last, Clarkson and Miss Maloney simultaneously dropped out of sight and were next heard from in London, where Miss Maloney was found living at a hotel and Clarkson in bachelor quarters. Following the disappearance of the two, and while frantic efforts to locate them were being made by the Maloney family, the situation was further complicated by the published claim of Osborn that he was the husband of the missing daughter.

To Modify Railway Rate Law. Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 10.—Governor Glenn has issued a proclamation for a special session of the assembly of North Carolina to begin on Tuesday, Jan. 21. The proclamation states that the specific purpose of the extra session is to change, modify, straighten or repeal the railroad passenger rate of 2½ cents a mile passed at the last session of the legislature.

SCHMITZ GUILTY, SAYS COURT

Judgment in Extortion Case Set Aside by Appellate Court.

San Francisco, Jan. 10.—The district court of appeals has handed down a decision setting aside the judgment in the case of former Mayor Eugene E. Schmitz, convicted of extortion in the French restaurant case. Abe Ruef also benefits by the ruling of the upper court for, according to its decision, he pleaded guilty to an act that was no offense against the laws of the state.

According to the appellate judges, the compelling of French restaurants to pay "fees" to Abe Ruef was not a crime, even though Ruef divided the fees with the mayor. After discussing the point the court reversed the judgment against Schmitz on the ground that no acts constituting a crime had been proved against him. Abe Ruef, who pleaded guilty to extorting money from the French restaurants, is therefore equally guilty.

The decision wipes out the French restaurant cases and, pending charges of extortion against Schmitz and Ruef, must be dismissed. Both are now entitled to release on bail. If they obtain the necessary bondsman they can remain at liberty until such time as a jury finds them guilty on one of the indictments charging them with receiving bribes from corporations. Owing to the number of cases against them the bail, figured at $10,000 a case, would reach an enormous figure. Schmitz and Ruef cannot take advantage of the decision for sixty days. The prosecution has twenty days in which to ask for a re-hearing. Then the appellate court will have ten days to consider the application. When that is done the prosecution will go through the same procedure in the supreme court, which will take the same length of time. Consequently Schmitz and Ruef will still be kept in the county jail two months at least.

Assistant District Attorney Henry has not yet received a copy of the lengthy decision of the appellate court in the case, and until he has read it and considered it carefully, he declines to comment on the judgment rendered. This decision will have the effect of invalidating the other four indictments charging Schmitz as well as Ruef with extortion, and renders void the plea of guilty made by Ruef, as the appellate court held that no crime has been committed. By this reversal it is feared that the prosecution has lost its hold upon Ruef, and it was freely predicted today that the former political boss would refuse all overtures for immunity wholly or in part, to testify in the bribery graft cases and fight every indictment.

There are still pending against Ruef 126 indictments charging bribery, on which the total bail may be $1,170,000, and Schmitz might have to get bonds for $450,000 on the forty indictments that remain against him to secure his liberty.

Canton, O., Jan. 10.—Police officials declare they have found substantial clues which they think will lead to the identification of the murderer of Elizabeth Brown, the young girl whose body was found Tuesday morning in an alley in a desolate place. The girl had been killed by blows on her head with a hammer, which was found on an ash-pile. Albert Lukens, a laborer, has been arrested on a charge of suspicion.

The decision wipes out the French restaurant cases and, pending charges of extortion against Schmitz and Ruef, must be dismissed. Both are now entitled to release on bail. If they obtain the necessary bondsman they can remain at liberty until such time as a jury finds them guilty on one of the indictments charging them with receiving bribes from corporations. Owing to the number of cases against them the bail, figured at $10,000 a case, would reach an enormous figure. Schmitz and Ruef cannot take advantage of the decision for sixty days. The prosecution has twenty days in which to ask for a re-hearing. Then the appellate court will have ten days

"DAINTY LAUNDERING"

Our methods of washing, starching and ironing would scarcely injure a butterfly's wing, much less a sturdy shirt or collar. There may be a trifle of exaggeration in this statement, but you know what we mean, that we exercise conscientious care in the way we "do up" things. This is a laundry saving bank—your clothes last longer—because of his care we always use.

COUNTY NEWS

Plum Creek

Rev. Burns preached to a good audience Sunday morning and evening at Plum Creek.

Mrs. Amos Clifford, of Indianapolis, has returned after a visit with relatives in Rush county.

We congratulate our old neighbor, Isaac B. Richardson in selecting such a good wife. He was well aware of what he was doing, as she had kept house for him for almost three years.

Frank Nipp and wife and little daughter Irene, of Anderson, are spending a few days with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Nipp.

Joel Carson and wife gave a turkey dinner last Sunday to a number of their relatives. After twenty-seven had eaten, we believe as many more could have been satisfied. Joel and his good wife don't believe in doing things on the halves.

Joseph Martin and wife and Stephen Hayes, of Columbus, Ohio, are visiting with James H. and J. L. Hayes and families.

Ben Ertel's two little girls have whooping cough.

Mrs. George Meyer planned a very successful surprise on her husband last Tuesday evening. On his return home he was greeted by forty-five of his friends. A very pleasant evening was spent in social conversation, music and refreshments of cake, coffee and candy and popcorn were served. All departed wishing him many more such happy events.

TO BE ENVIED

Here is a Man Who Had Never Heard of the Thaw Case.

New York, Jan. 10.—One new-sworn juror was added to the Thaw trial panel yesterday, making seven in all, selected from the 400 talesmen summoned since the beginning of the second hearing on Monday. Another panel of 100 reported today. The man who took his place as trial juror No. 7 was William F. Doolittle, chief clerk in the auditing department of the New York Central railway. Among the veterans examined was Patrick J. McCue, an elderly hat manufacturer, who declared he had never heard of the case. Jerome rejected him.

Two Georgia Negroes Lynched. Hawkinsville, Ga., Jan. 10.—Two negro farm hands who made a murderous assault on Mr. and Mrs. Martin Livingston at their home in Goldsboro, this county, were captured by a posse and shot to death.

Run Ended Disastrously.

Wickliffe, Ky., Jan. 10.—The Farmers' bank failed to open its doors yesterday as a result of a run. The bank had a capital of $15,000. It is stated that all depositors will be paid in full.

Two Killed in Wreck.

San Jose, Cal., Jan. 10.—Sunset express No. 10, southbound on the Southern Pacific, was wrecked last night at Rucker, twenty-five miles south of here. Mrs. A. P. Boyd of Portland, Ore., and her little son were killed. Eighteen injured are being treated at the Gilroy hospital. The cause of the wreck is unknown at this time. Two coaches were overturned on the tracks and one thrown into the country road.

Perished in Flames.

Mishawak, Ind., Jan. 10.—Eighteen of the fifty stalls of the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern passenger and freight roundhouse, with the big machine shop and office, that stood between, were destroyed by fire. Wm. Shambarger, eighteen years old, who had charge of the toolroom, was burned to death, expiring on the ground just after he emerged from the oilroom. The loss may reach $50,000. The company does not carry insurance on its property.

Kidney Troubles Attack Rushville Men and Women, Old and Young

Alike

Kidney ills seize young and old alike—Quickly comes and little warning given. Children suffer in their early years—Can't control the kidney secretions. Women worry, can't do daily work. Robust men have lame and aching backs.

Old folks, weak, rheumatic, lame. Endure distressing urinary ills. The cure for man, for women, or for child.

Is to cure the cause—the kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys. Cure all the varied forms of kidney suffering.

Rushville testimony guarantees every box.

Mrs. Frank Vredenburg, 211 Jackson street, Rushville, Ind., says:

"I have had some experience in giving Doan's Kidney Pills to children and I can recommend them for strengthening the kidneys. I have a child that was troubled with bed wetting and was informed by a physician that nothing could be done for it. Finally I read that Doan's Kidney Pills were good for such troubles and got a box at F. B. Johnson & Company's drug store. They soon checked this trouble and I am having no difficulty with the little fellow now."

CHARLES S. VAIL, Associate City Editor

RUSHVILLE, INDIANA, JANUARY 10, 1908

Remember the district convention at Cambridge City next Tuesday.

County and township candidates are looming up on all sides and the handshake is being worked over time.

So far three candidates have appeared in the Sixth district for delegates to the national Republican convention. They are R. G. Leeds, of Richmond; Charles Campbell, of Shelbyville, and E. P. Thayer, of Greenfield. Many candidates for this honor are appearing in the various districts of the State, and it appears there is to be a lively struggle. The Sixth district is entitled to two delegates.

The Rushville merchants generally find upon figuring up their year's business that they had a very satisfactory trade. The merchants here in Rushville are abreast of the times and command the patronage of their territory to a larger degree perhaps than any city in Indiana. Our out-of-the county trade is constantly growing and is no small factor in helping make our stores the equal of those found in the larger cities.

INDIANA POLITICS

By ROBERT G. TUCKER

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 10.—The smoke of the battle resulting in the election of U. S. Jackson of Greenfield as chairman of the Democratic state committee had hardly cleared away before it became apparent that the "antis" are lining up for another struggle, the object of which, it is declared, will be to prevent the nomination of organization candidates at the state convention. It is said by a certain circle of politicians that the organization, encouraged by the election of Jackson, may try to name the candidates for governor and other offices. In fact, it was rumored that certain entries in the coming race had been picked as favorites by the organization. It was not reported that there was an organization program calling for the nomination of any particular candidate, but the "antis" suspect that there is one. Senator L. E. Slade of Franklin was very busy among the visiting party workers, and he made it apparent to them that he does not expect the support of the old organization men. He did not, however, indicate that he is opposed to the new chairman or that he is courting a fight with him. Slade was promised the support of many of the "antis," who seemed to regard him as their logical candidate. It was reported that they will lose no time in starting an organization to keep the dominant forces from carrying out any program they may attempt at the state convention.

Friends of National Chairman Taggart say that he will not try to dictate any of the nominations on the state ticket and that he prefers to keep entirely out of the game. They assert that he was telling the absolute truth in his statement that he had no candidate for the state chairmanship at the outset and that he only took up Jackson's candidacy when forced to do it by his opponents. The anti-organization leaders feel that their showing Wednesday warrants the feeling that they have a good chance of controlling the state convention. They believe that the masses of the party are now thoroughly aroused and that within the next few months they can organize them into a compact body that will keep the old contingent from running away with the state convention. They declare that there will be no let-up and that the old organization can have all the fight it desires. A story current here that Jackson's election was brought about through the influence of John W. McCardle, Republican member of the state board of tax commissioners, with Michael Foley, Ninth district chairman, who broke the combination that was voting for Judge R. K. Erwin through nearly forty ballots, is branded as false by the parties in interest. Foley declared today that there is no truth in the story, as McCardle never talked to him about voting for Jackson. He said that he voted for Judge Erwin for thirty-seven ballots in hope of electing a harmony candidate, but that when he found it would be impossible to do so he voted for Jackson. "Jackson has been one of my closest friends for the last fifteen years," said Foley, "and I wanted to vote for him. However, I was willing to vote for any good harmony candidate as long as there was a possibility of electing one. When I found that we couldn't agree on one in the committee, I cast my vote for Jackson. I acted on my own responsibility and was not asked by Mr. McCardle or any Republican to support Jackson." McCardle also said that the story was untrue.

There is a growing sentiment all over the country that Caleb Powers, of Kentucky, who has been charged with being accessory before the fact to the murder of Wm. Goebel, of Kentucky, should be pardoned by Gov. Wilson. Powers was in Louisville when the murder was committed. It has never been shown that he knew who did it or incited the man to do it who did do it. He has now been in jail seven years, twice by perjured testimony he has been sentenced to death and twice by perjured testimony he has been sentenced to life imprisonment. At the last trial, concluded a few days ago, ten jurors voted for the acquittal of Powers and only two for his conviction and one of them offered to vote for acquittal if the other one would. The jury was composed of eight Democrats and four Republicans. The trial was considered about fair, as most all the perjured testimony against Powers has been eliminated. The $100,000 voted by the legislature to hire lawyers and secure testimony has about run out and so many of the witnesses for the prosecution confessed that they had been hired to commit perjury that the entire prosecution was discredited. People feel that Powers should be pardoned.

Several members of the Indiana committee of the National Independence League, of which William Randolph Hearst is at the head, are here to attend a meeting of those interested in the work of the league. R. H. Isherwood of Delphi, secretary of the Indiana committee, was in conference with C. A. Walsh, former member of the Democratic national committee from Iowa, who is now deeply interested in the Independence League. The meeting of the state committee is being held at the Hotel English. The Indiana committee is composed of one member from each county in the state. Secretary Isherwood said that fifteen or twenty members of the committee would be present. C. F. S. Neal, chairman of the Indiana committee, is an Indiana man, now temporarily located in Chicago. William Reister of Evansville is the vice chairman of the Indiana branch of the league. Mr. Hearst is not in attendance at the meeting today. "We had rather expected Mr. Hearst," said Mr. Walsh, "but information received today is to the effect that he will not be able to attend the meeting."

CURRENT COMMENT

The Pendulum of Literature.

From England, the land of readers, comes the report that serious books are running fiction from the library and the reading table. For three years the demand for novels has steadily dropped behind other works. There has been a marvelous appetite for novels since the passing of George Eliot and the coming of Conan Doyle, Marie Corelli, Mrs. Humphry Ward, Hall Caine and others. The masters used to command readers because they were masters. Of late years the new book by a new or at least a fresh author has been the rage. Perhaps in the multitude of novels lies the secret of a change of taste from fiction to fact.

For about one decade novelists have raised up the most profound questions that can stir the soul of man. George Eliot set her readers to studying human character and motive. Other writers have gone deep into religious problems, not alone creeds, but religious history. Historical novels, whether based upon history or merely using historical labels on characters, have sent readers to the archives for documents. Then novelists of the Jules Verne school have exploited the mysteries of science and aroused a wide curiosity to know what is possible and what merely the dream of a wizard. Writers of fiction on special lines must soon find the limits of their field. There are only a few problems in life vital to man's happiness that

How the Courts Undo Legislation

By Justice WILLIAM J. GAYNOR of the New York Supreme Court.

IN the hands of ENLIGHTENED judges our common law is ELASTIC ENOUGH TO BE ADAPTED TO THE NATION'S PROGRESS instead of being made a stumbling block in the way. We have also to consider whether the trend of the courts has not come to be too great toward setting aside acts of the legislatures.

MANY ARE OF OPINION THAT THE COURTS ARE GOING TOO FAR AND ARE TOO EAGER IN THAT DIRECTION.

Our legislatures have the UNQUESTIONABLE right to regulate the rates and fares of public service corporations. In New York the legislature, by a committee appointed by it for the purpose and aided by eminent counsel and the highest expert advice, made an exhaustive examination of the cost of the manufacture and supplying of gas, with a view to reducing its price in large cities. On the report made the legislature, with due deliberation and care, reduced the price to 80 cents. A MASTER IN CHANCERY AND A JUDGE FORTHWITH DECLARED THE STATUTE VOID on the ground that it violated that provision of the federal or state constitution which forbids the taking of private property without compensation.

It is certain that those who framed and passed that CONSTITUTIONAL provision never dreamed of its being put to such a purpose.

THERE IS NO DANGER, IN MY JUDGMENT, OF OUR LEGISLATURES CONFISCATING PRIVATE PROPERTY. IT HAS NEVER BEEN DONE IN THE ANGLO-SAXON WORLD OR ANYWHERE ELSE, FOR THAT MATTER, UNLESS IN REVOLUTIONS IN WHICH WRONGS WERE RIGHTEOUS.

religion, philosophy and science may be supposed to solve. Novels turning upon them provoke thought and a desire to go deeper. In England the demand for religious books is on the increase, although the preachers are lamenting the skepticism and irreverence of this age. Perhaps the day for spiritual exhilaration is ended. Perhaps men now seek to test the original sources and see whether there is anywhere bread for the soul that is bread and not stone.

Twentieth Century Wonders.

Some philosophers on reviewing the nineteenth century declared that the human race had about reached its limit of expansion, discovery and invention and must settle down to social development and enjoy the fruits of pioneer labors. Yet the beginning of the twentieth century has seen the perfection of wireless telegraphy. The steam turbine, which was only an inventor's dream a few years back, has revolutionized steamship speed, and an ocean liner is preparing to apply the gyroscope to practical use for averting the rolling of ships at sea. Wireless telephoning is an accomplished fact for short distances, and experts see no reason why it may not be made to work across the ocean.

The gyroscope isn't a new thing under the sun, but it has done the world little good except perhaps as a toy wonder. Neither is wireless telegraphy new. Morse tried it successfully more than half a century ago. But this age differs from the past in that it knows not impossibilities. They may scare the timid, but must not deter the bold. If the gyroscope can be controlled it may be made to move a railway train at marvelous speed. It seems to be the spirit of this century not to be "content to let well enough alone." It wants to do more long distance talking and high speed traveling than its predecessors and is not only beating all old records, but rapidly smashing its own.

The dollhouse that little Kathleen Vanderbilt, daughter of Reginald C. Vanderbilt, received Christmas was a miniature section of a grand villa which cost, it is said, $1,000. Very likely some child with a Noah's ark bought at a five and ten cent store was happier.

The "remarkable fact" man has gone to the trouble of discovering that this country has never had among its presidents a Charles, a Joseph or a Robert. Several gentlemen might be named who think it high time for one of the three to be added to the list.

The point that the navy's colliers ought to be commanded by coal dealers also seems to be well taken, but not many of them might care to exchange the rank of coal-baron for that of rear admiral.

An authority says that the Baltimore women "are the most beautiful and the most graceful" ever. It is to be hoped that they are also too sensible to be spoiled by overpraise.

Its Power.

Dr. Clark says: "Every manufacturing plant when it decides to do more business adds to its horsepower. The sole power of the Christian Endeavor society is the active membership. Every real active member won is a new force added to the dynamics of the kingdom of heaven. Do not overwork the story of Gideon and his 300. It does not teach that God prefers to work with the few rather than the many. Ten thousand Gideonites are better than 300. Only see that they are Gideonites. Let us get away forever from the heresy that a Christian Endeavor society is a little club of like minded young people who meet together once a week for a pleasant little conclave of a religious character. A good Endeavor society may be very small, but it is always as large as its field allows."—Irish Endeavorer.

Set the Pace.

Young Mabel had a habit when soup was served at the table of mushing her crackers or bread in it until it was a great mess. Her mother made many efforts to have her correct this strictly primeval habit. One day there was to be company at the table, and the mother said: "Now, Mabel, Mrs. Brown is to dine with us tonight, and I want you to act at the table just as nicely as she does. Please don't 'mush' your soup." Mabel promised faithfully to follow the example set by Mrs. Brown, and the dinner opened with every promise of a fine time. However, Mabel was using a pair of very sharp eyes on Mrs. Brown and in an instant blurted forth at the top of her voice: "Oh, mamma, Mrs. Brown is 'mushing'! May 17!"

THE JESTOR OF WINDSOR CASTLE

Landlord Freeman keeps the Windsor hotel open all night, having taken the night shift himself now for a treatment of insomnia. After eleven o'clock it is kept open merely to catch the few stragglers who come in on the late traction cars ever and anon, and the Connorsville boys caught in the rain over here, but principally to sell stamps to late letter writers. Some of the "stunts" which arise after the town is wrapped in slumber amply repays Mr. Freeman for his nightly vigil. Last night a "rich" one occurred, which must be put in cold type.

A young man, one of those fellows of silly mannerisms and who looked as if he carried a maid, walked up to the desk, and in a high picolo, piping, lisping voice, said:

"Mister hotel keeper, would you be so obliging as to accommodate me in the sale of a two cent stamp?"

"Why certainly Agnes," said Freeman, putting the extension apparatus of his chubby mustache in motion and spreading it over his face under a smile.

The young man gracefully picked up the stamp with the index finger and thumb, and exercising great care and precision, placed it up-side-down at an angle of a Masonic thirty-second degree on the perfumed note. Dropping it in the mailbox, he auspiciously walked out of the place, with a "thank you, kind sir," and an extra skip at the door.

"Did you see that guy?" said Freeman after he had left? "if that wasn't the limit. The breakfast food kid, eh? He put that stamp on in a certain way carrying on a stamp flirtation, which placed as it was, means in the language of stamps 'I still love you.' They ought to turn that block over to a gang of Pacific ocean sailors, and make him learn to chew tobacco."

"That was not a stamp flirtation sign," put in a bystander.

"What was it then?" said Freeman.

"Why that fellow is a graduate of a correspondence school, and that was his college yell."

"My argument is purely in the abstract, Mr. Siward. I am asking you whether the death men deal is more justifiable than a woman's gift of death."

"Oh, well, life taking, the giving of life—there can be only one answer to the mystery, and I don't know it," he replied, smiling.

"I do."

"Tell me, then, he said," still amused. They had passed syphle after syphle of silver birches, waist deep in perfumed fern and brack. The big timber lay before them. She moved forward, light gun swung easily across her leather padded shoulder, and on the wood's sunny edge she seated herself, straight young back against a giant pine, gun balanced across her flattened knees.

"You are feeling the pace a little," he said, coming up and standing in front of her.

"The pace? No, Mr. Siward."

She sat, bright head pillowed in her arms, idly attentive to his low running comment on beast and bird and tree, on forest stillness and forest sounds, on life and the wild laws of life and death governing the great out world 'twixt sky and earth.

Somewhere in the woodland world the crows were holding a noisy session, and she told him that was the jury debating the degree of his guilt in killing the birds.

"Because you're guilty, of course," she continued. "I wonder what your sentence is to be?"

"I'll leave it to you," he suggested lazily.

"Suppose I sentenced you to stay no more?"

"Oh, I'd appeal!"

"No use. I am the tribunal of last resort."

"Then I throw myself upon the mercy of the court."

"You do well, Mr. Siward. This court is very merciful. How much do you care for bird murder? Very much? Is there anything you care for more? Yes? And could this court grant it to you in compensation?"

He said deliberately, roused by the level challenge of her gaze. "The court is incompetent to compensate the prisoner or offer any compromise."

"Why, Mr. Siward?"

"Because the court herself is already compromised in her future engagements."

"But what has my engagement to do with?"

"You offered compensation for driving me of my shooting. There could be only one adequate compensation."

"And that?" she asked, coolly enough.

"Your continual companionship."

"But you have it, Mr. Siward."

"I have it for a day. The season lasts three months, you know."

"And you and I are to play a continuous vaudeville for three months! Is that your offer?"

"Partly."

"Then one day with me is not worth those many days of murder?" she asked in pretended astonishment.

"Ask yourself why those many days would be doubly empty," he said, so seriously that the pointless game began to confuse her.

"Then"—she turned lightly from uncertain ground—"then perhaps we had better be about that matter of the cup you prize so highly. Are you ready, Mr. Siward? There is much to be killed yet, including time, you know."

"I am not sure," he reflected, "just exactly what I should ask of you if you insist on taking away"—he turned and looked about him through the burnt gold foliage—"if you took away all this out of my life."

"I shall not take it, because I have nothing in exchange to offer, you say," she answered imprudently.

"I did not say so," he retorted.

"You did, reminding me that the court is already engaged for a continuous performance."

"Was it necessary to remind you?" he asked, with deliberate malice.

She flushed up, vexed, silent, then looked directly at him with beautiful hostile eyes. "What do you mean, Mr. Siward? Are you taking our harmless, idle badinage as warrant for an intimacy unwarranted?"

"Have I offended?" he asked, so impassively that a flash of resentment brought her to her feet, angry and self possessed.

"How far have we to go?" she asked quietly.

He rose to his feet, turned, hailing the keeper, repeating the question. And at the answer they both started forward, the dog ranging ahead through a dense growth of beech and chestnut, over a high brown ridge, then down, always down along a leafy ravine to the water's edge—a forest pond set in the gorgeous foliage of ripening maples. "I don't see," said Sylvia impatiently, "how we are going to obey instructions and go straight ahead. There must be a stupid boat somewhere!"

But the game laden keeper shook his head, pulled up his hip boots, and pointed out a line of alder poles set in the water to mark a crossing.

"Am I expected to wade?" asked the girl anxiously.

"This here," observed the keeper, "is to the water's edge, instinctively gathering her kilts in one hand.

Bearing the girl between them, they waded out.

"Miles and I could chair you over," suggested Siward.

"Is that fair—under the rules?"

"Oh, yes, miss, as long as you go straight," said the keeper.

So they laid aside the guns and the keeper's gamesack, and formed a chair with their hands, and, bearing the girl between them, they waded out along the driven alder stakes, knee deep in brown water.

Her arm, lightly resting around his neck, tightened a trifle as the water rose to his thighs; then the faint pressure relaxed as they thrashed shoreward through the shallows, ankle deep once more, and landed among the dry reeds on the farther bank.

Miles, the keeper, went back for the guns. Siward stamped about in the sun, shaking the drops from waterproof breeches and gaiters, only to be half drenched again when Sagamore shook himself vigorously.

"I suppose," said Sylvia, looking sideways at Siward, "your contempt for my sporting accomplishments has not decreased. I'm sorry. I don't like to walk in wet shoes even to gain your approval."

And as the keeper came splashing across the shallows: "Miles, you may carry my gun. I shall not need it any longer."

The upward roar of a bevy of grouse drowned her voice. Poor Sagamore, pointing madly in the blackberry thicket all unperceived, cast a dismayed glance aloft where the sunlit air quivered under the winnowing rush of heavy wings. Siward flung up his gun, heading a big quartering bird.

Steadily the glittering barrels swerved in the arc of fire, hesitated, wavered, then the possibility passed. The young fellow lowered the gun slowly, gravely, stood a moment motionless with bent head until the rising color in his face had faded.

And that was all for awhile. The astonished and disgusted keeper stared into the thicket. The dog lay quivering, impatient for signal. Sylvia's heart, which had seemed to stop with her voice, silenced in the gusty thunder of heavy wings, began beating too fast. For the ringing crack of a gun shot could have spoken no louder to her than the glittering silence of the suspended barrels nor any promise of his voice sound as the startled stillness sounded now about her, for he had made something a trifle more than mere amends for his rudeness. He was overdoing everything a little.

He stood on the thicket's edge, absently unloading the weapon, scarcely understanding what he had done and what he had not done.

A moment later a far hall sounded across the uplands, and against the sky figures moved distantly.

"Alderden and Marion Page," said Siward. "I believe we lunch yonder, do we not, Miles?"

They climbed the hill in silence, arriving after a few minutes to find others already at luncheon—the Page boys, eager, enthusiastic, recounting adventure by flood and field; Rena Bonnesed, tired and frankly bored and decorated with more than her share of mud; Eileen Shannon, very pretty, very effective, having done more execution with her eyes than with the dainty fowling piece beside her.

Marion Page nodded to Sylvia and Siward with a crisp, businesslike question or two, then went over to inspect their bag, nodding approbation as Miles laid the game on the grass.

"Eight full brace," she commented. "We have five and an odd cock pheasant from Black Fells, I suppose. The people to our left have been blazing away like Coney Island, but Rena's guide says the ferns are full of rabbits that way, and Major Belwether can't hit fur afoot. You," she added frankly to Siward, "ought to take the cup. The birches ahead of you are full of woodcock. If you don't Howard Quarrier will. He's into a flight of jack snipe, I bear."

Siward's eyes had suddenly narrowed; then he laughed, patting Sagamore's cheeks. "I don't believe I shall shoot very steadily this afternoon," he said, turning toward the group at luncheon under the trees. "I wish Quarrier well with the cup."

"Nonsense!" said Marion Page curtly. "You are the cleanest shot I ever knew." And she raised her glass to him frankly and emptied it with the precision characteristic of her: "Your cup! With all my heart!"

"I also drink to your success, Mr. Siward," said Sylvia in a low voice, lifting her champagne glass in the sunlight. "To the Shotover cup—if you wish it."

In the little gust of hand clapping and laughter he turned again to Sylvia smilingly, saying under his breath, "As though winning the cup would compensate me now for losing it!"

She leaned involuntarily nearer, "You mean that you will not try for it?"

"Yes."

"That is not fair to me!"

"Why not?"

"Because—because I do not ask it of you."

"You need not, now that I know your wish."

"Mr. Siward, I—my—wish!"

But she had no chance to finish. Already Rena Bonnesed was looking at them, and there was a hint of amused surprise in Eileen Shannon's mischievous eyes, averted instantly, with malicious ostentation.

GET RICH QUICK.

Schemes of this class have again come to grief along with the gullible investors, causing serious loss to innocent business concerns, as is always the case of panics in Wall St.

While this last lesson is yet fresh in mind, it is an opportune moment to consider causes and means to avoid like trouble in the future.

Direct your attention to the greatest of all Newspapers the Cincinnati Enquirer. From its columns one can readily detect the trend of currency, its lodging places, by whom handled, uses made of it, and final results.

Again you read quotations of Bonds, Stocks, and Securities of every nature, fixing Status of all business from the retailer, to United States Government.

Also Current News, facts and reliable data covering the entire world; all sufficiently explicit to enable thinking people to avoid snags and follow the channel of success.

Its extra size and high price, is the secret of its ability to discover, obtain, print and serve its patrons with all the news, and cater to wants of people in every calling of life.

The Weekly Enquirer for the year 1908 has greatly increased its Clubbing offers which now include the most select and popular publications of the day at prices slightly over half the regular Subscription rates.

Do not overlook the fact that the year 1908 promises to excel in prosperity any of the past, and that the Enquirer printed at Cincinnati, Ohio, is one of the most reliable sources of information.

ON GOOD BEHAVIOR

Muncie Continues to Feel Sobering Influence of State's Action.

STRIKE CONDITIONS BETTER

Major-General McKee Is of Opinion That Part of the Militia Force Can Be Spared From Duty.

In Accordance With This View Three Companies of Troops Are Relieved.

Muncie, Ind., Jan. 10.—Muncie continues to cling to her record for good behavior, established when the troops came last Saturday, following a period of three days of riot and bloodshed. Not even a suggestion of an outbreak by the rioters has been made in the last forty-eight hours.

In view of these peaceful conditions Major General McKee has issued orders for the return to their homes of three companies now in Muncie, one from each of the three battalions now in service. The companies to go home are A, of Indianapolis, the Kokomo company and the company from Greenfield. About fifty men went home yesterday. They were mostly members of the hospital corps.

Considerable ill feeling has been engendered among labor leaders here over the treatment accorded A. L. Behner of the Amalgamated association. Behner is the labor leader notified by the civil authorities of Muncie to leave here and remain away because of alleged inflammatory utterances. Mahon, the president of the Amalgamated association, has complained in strong terms of the action, and openly calls it an attempt to undertake Russian methods in American life.

The authorities say there is no charge against Mahon nor against Behner, but the latter is simply not desired here because of his alleged attempt to violate the mayor's proclamation. Neither Behner nor Mahon have returned to Muncie since Tuesday, but labor leaders say they will return when they please and take the consequences.

The traction company has not yet begun to operate its cars during the early morning hours, the first car going out at 8 o'clock, when the regular schedule fixes 6 o'clock as the starting hour. Sheriff Perdue continues to use the deputy sheriffs to guard the lines. The boycott of the cars on the Indiana Union Traction company's lines continues to be effective to a marked degree, and little riding is being done. It is this fact that makes many people believe that Mahon and Behner are working further to tie up the situation. Some of the more radical labor leaders here wish a sympathetic strike called on traction lines in other cities, and even suggest extending the strike to Ohio and Illinois, but according to reports from President W. D. Mahon and Vice President A. L. Behner of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees, no sympathetic strike is contemplated.

Robert Monroe, prosecuting attorney of Delaware county, has begun an investigation of the recent riots here and hundreds of names have been obtained and subpoenas will be issued at once for their appearance before the grand jury, which is expected to convene next Monday. Prosecutor Monroe said today that he is going to make the rowdies pay for the fun they have had and for the part they have played in making Muncie notorious as a riot center. The grand jury will probe the riot thoroughly, and every participant that can be obtained will be called before that body to tell what he knows. Secret agents of the prosecutor are now collecting evidence and names from every possible source. "I am going to prove to a good many people that this is not a joke," was the emphatic way in which Mr. Monroe expressed himself.

"Man in Ohio" Blamed.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Jan. 10.—Samuel Lewis, a negro, who was arrested at Fort Wayne, charged with raising and passing spurious bills, now denies that he changed the figures on the paper money, and implicates some man in Ohio. The negro is trying to shield his wife, who, the officers believe, did most of the work. An attempt is being made to get Lewis to divulge the name of the Ohio man.

Double Tragedy in Kentucky.

Shopville, Ky., Jan. 10.—In an alteration between Postmaster Harvey McGargue and Claud Price, McGargue was shot and killed and Price was probably fatally stabbed. The trouble is said to have been the result of McGargue ordering Price to refrain from calling on a young woman in the postmaster's home.

Here's Where the Fun Comes In

One they used to tell at Jim Glore's bakery and Patty Hart's old stand, appearing in this year's almanac: "A man went to a local drug store the other day and asked for an empty bottle. He asked the price and was told it would be five cents, but if he had anything put in it he would not be charged for the bottle. 'Well, that's right,' said the foxy purchaser, 'just put a cork in it!'"
